

"Turrell Gets Into Gallery Design." Artinfo. 11 January 2013. Web. Email.

BLOUIN ARTINFO

Turrell Gets Into Gallery Design:

Why hang a work of art in a gallery for a limited time when you can make a permanent mark on the space? Or with the space itself? James Turrell is designing a gallery for Los Angeles's Kayne Griffin Corcoran, which is moving to South La Brea Avenue from Santa Monica this spring. The new 10,000-square-foot location will have its very own permanent installations by Turrell, including a signature "skyspace." He is also designing a courtyard and the main gallery.